Performance

Key Points

We see a nice improvement in video start-up time with the new release. Performance has generally been solid.

Metric Notes: Re-buffering ratio is the percentage of time viewers experience re-buffering during playback. Average bitrate is the rate at which content was delivered across the entire audience in a given time frame. The higher the bitrate, the better the image quality. Video Startup Time is the average time (in seconds) before a video starts streaming after being selected. Concurrent Plays is the maximum number of devices simultaneously streaming video for a given time frame.

fios Mobile App Download & Updates Key Points

Downloads have slipped back since the beginning of October, but remain consistent.

Total Downloads
iOS	Android	Kindle
2,692,919	2,808,930	149,410

Updates
	iOS	Android
Current Update	1,755,369	639,515
Prior Update	2,142,508	732,883
% of Prior	81.9%	87.3%

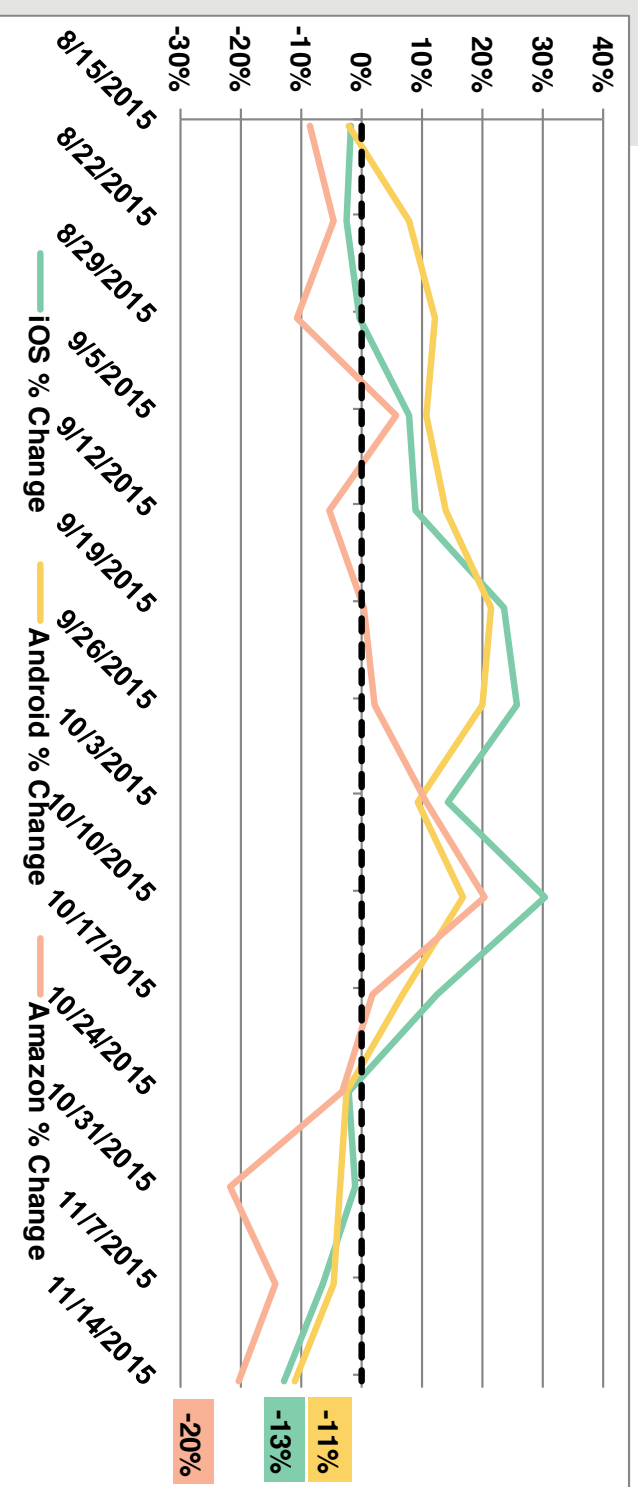

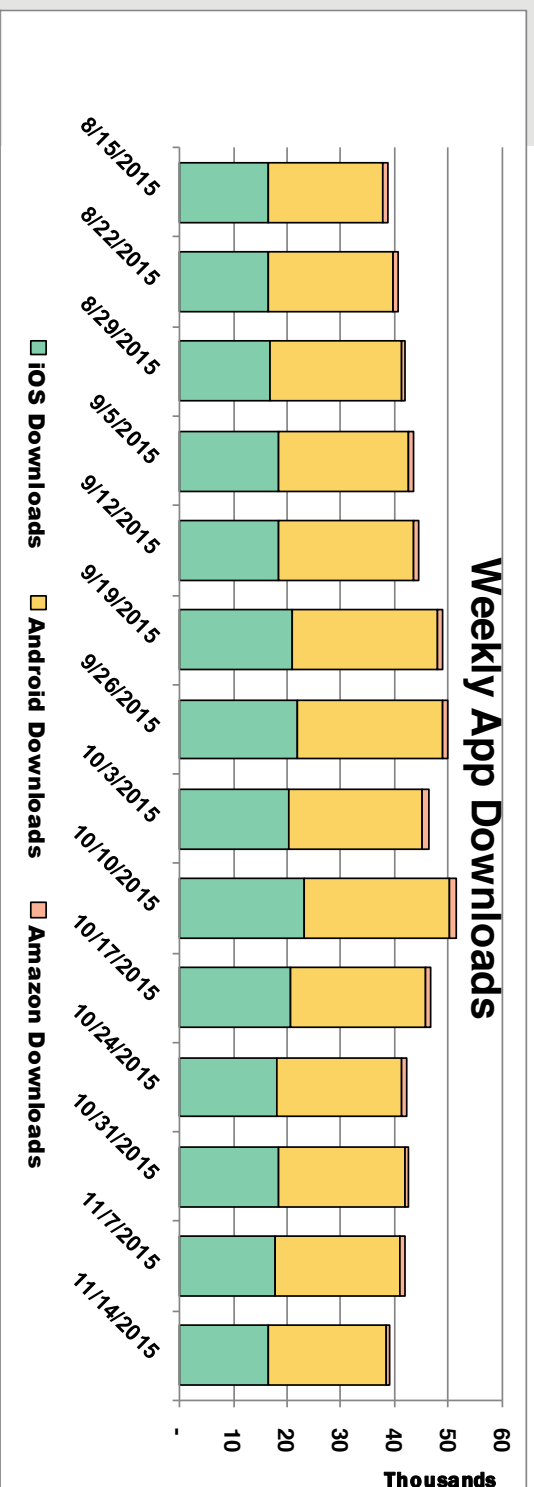

Metric Notes: iTunes counts downloads & updates based on accounts downloading or updating the app. GooglePlay and Amazon count downloads & updates based on unique devices downloading or updating the app. Updates for the current & prior releases are based on peaks in the update data. % Change in Downloads vs. Prior 13 Weeks = Current Week Downloads divided by average of thirteen preceding weeks. Downloads and updates are not restricted to Verizon fios customers.

Viewing

Key Points

CNN was the top channel for the week. Unfortunately that was driven by the events in Paris on last Friday. beIN Sports Espanol had a strong week out-of-home.

For the DMA's I have now included interactions with channels that we do not broadcast via the app. The interactions would include using the app as a remote control and tuning to those channels. This gives a picture of channels that would benefit us if we got the mobile rights to.

Metric Notes: Channels are ranked by total hours viewed. All efforts are made to correct duration reporting issues.

Linear Viewing – Top Programs

The NFL continues to be the most consistent draw. Apart from sports we see that viewing is looking more traditional with prime time shows across the major networks being popular.

Friday and Saturday saw viewership spike due to the events in France, with CNN getting the lion's share of viewership.

Metric Notes: Top daily programs are ranked by viewership. Data is aggregated by channel affiliation.
